Subject: Versowood's operations in compliance with the EU deforestation regulation (EUDR)

Dear Customer,

The EU Deforestation Regulation (EUDR, Regulation (EU) 2023/1115) will become applicable on 30 December 2026. The regulation is designed to ensure that wood products placed on the EU market are deforestation-free, legally produced, and fully traceable throughout the supply chain. Versowood will be compliant with the EUDR when the regulation becomes applicable, and a public description of Versowood's due diligence system will be available on the Versowood website by 30 December 2026 at the latest.

Under EUDR, Versowood is acting both as the operator placing timber on the market and as the processor of the raw material. This means that Versowood is responsible for preparing due diligence statements (DDS), submitting them to the EUDR Traces -system, and maintaining them within its own traceability system. In cases where Versowood procures raw materials that have already been placed on the market, Versowood retains the DDS reference numbers received from suppliers within its own traceability system. According to the interpretation of the Finnish competent authority, the Finnish Food Authority, DDS reference numbers do not need to be passed further down the supply chain.

Accordingly, and based on the guidance provided by the Finnish competent authority, Versowood will not, as a general rule, provide the reference numbers of due diligence statements (DDS) together with deliveries of EUDR-covered products. DDS reference numbers will not be automatically included on invoices, delivery notes, or other shipment documentation, but they remain within Versowood's internal traceability system.

Products supplied by Versowood comply with EUDR requirements, and customers can rely on the EUDR compliance of Versowood products without the need to receive DDS reference numbers with each shipment.

If you have any questions, please contact your regular sales representative.

Kind regards,

Versowood Oy
